

THEIR LOUD HALLOO WOULD WAKE THE DEAD, OR MAYBE A BOX-CAR FARE IN THE MORNING

"That in view of the fact that all railway crossings in Newmarket are protected by wig-wags, the Canadian National Railways are requested to reduce to a minimum the amount of whistling by trains going through."

This resolution, introduced by Reeve Fred A. Lundy, was carried by the town council on Monday evening.

"I'm back of you," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales. "For the sake of people who are trying to sleep. Some municipalities get along without whistling."

Mr. Lundy stated that sometimes the power is off.

"The wig-wags operate anyway, from batteries," said N. L. Mathews, K. C., clerk and solicitor.

"Sometimes they don't work," said Councillor Wm. Dixon. "They have a very delicate mechanism."

"That is very dangerous," said

DAVIS L. AND SPECIALTY TIE, PLAY FRIDAY

TRAINING CAMP AND TOWN START SERIES
TONIGHT

IT'S "SEE-SAW"

The semi-final series in the hardball loop got under way on Friday evening at the Stuart Scott school grounds.

The old rivals, the Davis Leather and Office Specialty, hooked up in the first game of their two-out-of-three series. The Specialty squad proved no match for their factory rivals, the tanners walking off with an 11-4 verdict.

The tanners took the lead in their first time up, pushing across three runs, Wright, Fairley and Peters coming in. In the second the tanners jumped on the combined offerings of pitchers Hilton and Hooper and ran in seven runs, Wright, Fairley, G. Haskett and Peters getting hits and three walks being tossed in for good measure to give the north enders their seven runs.

The leather squad ran in their final counter in the third on hits by Wright and Peters. From the third on the Specialty set down the tanners batters in order to hold their score at 11.

The cabinet makers manufactured their first run in the fourth, Widdifield crossing the plate on Mike Bank's double. The office squad had a rally in their final turn at bat, Ab. Evans, Neufeldt and Ben Wilson scoring on hits by Hooper and Widdifield, to bring up their final count to four.

Lusted, on the tannery mound, pitched a steady game, holding the Specialty to four runs on eight scattered hits, while the Davis batters were collecting 11 hits and four walks off the Specialty moundsman, Hilton and Hooper.

Reverse Tables

The Davis Leather and Office Specialty were again the contestants in the second game of the semi-finals at the local ball park on Tuesday evening. The cabinet makers, behind the steady pitching of Jim Hooper, evened up the series at one game each by taking the measure of the north enders by a 9-8 count.

In their first time at bat the tanners helped themselves to two runs, Wright and Fairley scoring on hits by G. Haskett and Gunn. The cabinet makers came right back in their half of the first, to knot the count, Neufeldt boosting a home run over the centre-field fence to score Ab. Evans ahead of him.

The Specialty added another in the second and four runs in the third without a reply from the tannery batters, Neufeldt, Banks and Hilton getting the hits that brought over the runs. The Davis squad went down in order in their second and third innings.

In the fourth the office squad added their final two runs. Neufeldt and Wilson getting around the bases to bring their total up to nine.

The tanners came to life at the plate in the fourth, and jumped on Jim Hooper's offerings for four runs, Gunn, W. Haskett, Tansley and Wright scoring.

From the fourth on both teams went down in order.

The Specialty on this occasion played a hot game both in the field and at bat. Hooper on the mound, pitching a steady game, went the whole route. Neufeldt and Wilson were the big noise at the plate, both connecting for solid hits when they were most needed. The tanners were not up to their usual game, committing several errors and sometimes being weak with the willow.

These two teams hook up in the deciding tilt for the right to go into the finals on Friday night and a battle of major proportions is sure to ensue, with these two teams both needing a victory to stay in the running.

Tonight (Thursday) will see the Town and the M.T.C. clashing in the first game of their series. Herby Cain is now handling the Town squad in the absence of Basil McHale, and his squad will be out to knock off the soldier boys.

BASE ALLOWANCE ON FACTORY ALLOWANCE

Town employees are receiving a cost of living bonus on the basis of $2.50 a (44-hour) week over 21 years and $1.50 a week over 21 years. It was stated at a town council meeting on Monday evening. This was said to be the same as Newmarket industries are allowing, and is subject to revision every three months in accordance with Ottawa's cost of living index.

'WETS WILL BE AMONG THOSE WHO VOTE DRY'

EX-MAYOR SAYS IT'S GRAND TO KNOW WHEN WELL OFF

HEADS LEAGUE

"Regarding the approaching vote on the beer parlors I have this to say," said Dr. S. J. Boyd, president of the Citizens' League, this week. "The vote will be held on or about Dec. 1, on the same day as the municipal election."

"Those entitled to vote are all citizens over 21 years of age who have had their home in the municipality for 60 days prior to the date of the election."

"This is not a campaign of wets against the dries. Many citizens who favor the moderate use of alcoholic beverages have stated definitely that they are opposed to beer parlors and will vote against the by-law."

"Any man or woman whose home is in Newmarket and who finds difficulty in deciding how they shall vote should go to Barrie and live there for a day or two and see for themselves how the free sale of alcoholic beverages in beer parlors affects the life and morals of young men and young women."

"Who will gain if Newmarket goes wet? It is conceded that the sale of beer would be doubled or trebled, so the breweries will gain. Several people who have properties where beer parlors will be located would gain. The rest of us will lose."

"The Newmarket military camp is spoken of as the finest of its kind in the whole of Canada. My youngest son has enlisted for overseas service and is at present training there. He tells me discipline at the camp is good and the boys live quite comfortably. But the officers of the permanent staff have to work very hard."

"It could hardly be expected that the majority of these officers would favor beer parlors, as quite a number of the trainees would return to camp in the evening partially intoxicated. They would be noisy and more difficult to control. Drinking the night before would make them physically less fit for drill the next day."

"It is a grand thing to know when you are well off. I think Newmarket citizens will vote wisely and keep the finest town in Canada dry and clean as at present."

Newmarket's 'Skifoes' Stage New Offensive

"Of late some homes in town have been infested with mosquitoes," stated Dr. J. H. Wesley, M.O.H., this week. "Usually the time for mosquitoes is in the spring, when the water in low-lying places is drying up and the weather is becoming warm. But of late years they have been prolonging their stay well on toward fall."

"As only certain homes have them it is just possible the place of their breeding is not far away, and it might be well for anyone being troubled to look about their home or the immediate vicinity for a possible breeding place, such as an old rain barrel, a dried up pool, or even a pail or a bottle containing stagnant water will make a favorable place for their hatching."

"Their life history is but a few days and they prefer warm weather to thrive. They do not travel far from where they are hatched unless they should be carried by the wind."

"The preventative is to spray all low-lying places about the house with some cheap oil once a week and to empty all receptacles about the grounds that contain water. This will do away with a possible mosquito-breeding place."

"The best campaigning time for mosquitoes is in the early spring, when they are in the larva stage. Many towns and cities go after these insects in a big way by coating all the ponds and streams with a film of cheap oil. This has the effect of smothering the larvae."

"It would be a big job and would entail the spending of a lot of money to film coat all our possible mosquito breeding places every year with oil, and it is just possible the public would prefer to swat the pest and deal with them at home in a local way and by so doing find that we are just as far ahead in the end."

"In talking with Dr. McChesney, the deputy minister of health, he says he does not know of any other town that has the same mosquito nuisance."

Bombed Children's Hospital Centres Big Lions' Carnival

Carnival This Year Breaks New Ground
With New Attractions and New Beneficiaries

The fine array of prizes for the Lions carnival now on display in Morrison's Men's Wear window is attracting much attention. One frequently overhears remarks about the wonderful work the Lions club is doing in Newmarket and it is gratifying that several people have volunteered to sell tickets to help the Lions put over this carnival, which is their one big appeal of the year.

Since the club is primarily interested in children, it is not surprising that the carnival committee is arranging several special events for the kiddies at the carnival next Wednesday, including the parade as advertised on the posters, a free concert at the grounds featuring the magician, Rex Slocombe, of Toronto, a treasure hunt and a bunch of live ponies to ride.

"Help us to help the kiddies" has been the Lions' appeal. Most of the medical and surgical work is done at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, which has escaped, of course, the blitzkrieg. The Lions, however, have received an appeal from a Hospital for Sick Children in London, for financial assistance to help repair the damage done by bombs. The Lions are arranging a bombed child's ward at the carnival and soliciting donations for the fund.

An aerial bomb will mark the start of the kiddies' parade from the King George school at 7.30 p.m. and a second their arrival at the Lions park to open the carnival. Variety is being provided this year, as never before, not only in the games, but in the concert tent and other attractions, not to mention the usual draw for a puppy.

The proceeds as usual are used entirely to carry on war work and the local child welfare work of removing tonsils and correcting sight, or limbs of children whose families are financially handicapped. Letters received by the Lions from some of the mothers tell the story eloquently. One case at present being taken up is worth the whole carnival (Page 4, Col. 4)

RECEIVES MAJOR'S RANK

Captain D. O. Mungovan of Newmarket, O.C. of C company, Queen's York Rangers, has been promoted to the rank of major. Last month Major Mungovan took a special machine-gun course at Three Rivers, P.Q., and at present is acting second-in-command of the county unit, which is at Niagara camp.

Establish Convent, Sisters Will Teach At St. John's

ARCHBISHOP TO SPEAK AT WELCOMING CEREMONY FOR SISTERS

The members of St. John's parish will next Sunday evening formally receive four Sisters of Providence, who are establishing a convent in Newmarket at 147 Main St. Their mother house is in Kingston.

Two sisters will teach in St. John's school, a third will have charge of the music in the school and the forming of a children's choir in the church. She will also be organist and give private lessons in music. The fourth sister will have charge of the convent.

His Grace Most Rev. James C. McGuigan, D.D., Archbishop of Toronto, and members of the clergy will be present at the reception.

IS IN QUEBEC CITY

Editor of the Newmarket Express-Herald, A. C. West is attending the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in Quebec city today, tomorrow and Saturday, which will be followed by a cruise up the Saguenay. Mr. West has been the leader and one of the chief workers in the Newmarket Veterans' Comforts organization, which has sent hundreds of cigarettes and other items to Newmarket boys overseas.

Armstrong Is Added To Water, Light Committee

Councillor Arleigh Armstrong is to be added to the town water and light committee. Other members are Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman, Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale and Councillor J. L. Spillite.

"I feel that we are going quite extensively into water and light work," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales at a town council meeting on Monday evening, making the proposal.

"The committee have done good work, but the committee might be enlarged in view of what is to be done," Dr. Dales said. "I would suggest adding one more member."

"The three committee members happened to be absent during the discussion."

"I agree with you," said Councillor Wm. Dixon. "I have thought that for some time."

"If you do add a member, there will be the same amount of work for each, except that there will be more members to get together," said N. L. Mathews, K. C., clerk and solicitor.

"That might be a disadvantage but I think that if the council had more representation on the committee, they would come to the council with more weight, and save discussion and time to council," said Dr. Dales.

"There is something to it, but I suggest that you talk it over first with the committee," said Reeve Fred A. Lundy.

Mr. Mathews pointed out that the committee, including the mayor, would have a majority in the council.

Mr. Evans arrived later in the evening and after the council meeting was over agreed with Dr. Dales' proposal and expressed approval of Mr. Armstrong as the new committee member.

RECEIVES TRANSFER TO FATHER'S HOME TOWN

A. C. George E. Johns of the R.C.A.F. in training as a pilot, has been transferred to Clinton wireless school to act as security guard. Clinton is the home town of A. E. Johns, Aircraftman Johns' father, who was principal of the public school there for four years.

WILL TAKE INSTRUCTOR'S COURSE IN COOKING

Signalman Robert Briggs, who has been stationed at Kingston, has been transferred to Camp Borden to take an instructor's course in cooking.

ARREARS SITUATION NOT "DETERIORATED"

When should the town make two water service charges when two families live in one house? Councillor A. V. Higginson asked what is being done about such cases at a town council meeting on Monday evening.

"We are going easy on people who have just a room in somebody else's house, until the solicitor gives us a ruling," said Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee.

"A service charge is made for each self-contained unit," said N. L. Mathews, K. C., clerk and solicitor. "If two families are living in separate units in the same house two service charges are made."

"We went easy on people during the depression," said Mr. Evans.

Councillor Wm. Dixon asked for a report on water and light arrears. He said that a purchase of a house found $35 in arrears owing.

"Arrears are pretty well kept down," said Mr. Mathews. "There is so much expense that we need all the revenue that is coming," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales.

GIFTS STILL COME FOR VICTORY FLAGPOLE

The town council was informed of a gift of $5 from Newmarket Girl Guides for the flagpole fund, at a meeting on Monday evening. The gift was accompanied by a letter from the leader, Mrs. Althea Vansant.

Another gift for the same fund came from C. W. Holmes, of the Bell Telephone Co., now of Stratford.

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales said that a plaque would be placed on the flagpole shortly, and would list the principal contributors. The plaque will be the gift of J. O. Little.

The flag is not flying at the present time, as it is undergoing repairs.

Ottawa Says Yes, Toronto No, Councillors Puzzled

TOWN HAS ALREADY TAKEN STEPS TO EXEMPT
SOME EMPLOYEES

A letter from the provincial minister of municipal affairs expressing the opinion that municipalities do not come under the Unemployment Insurance Act was received by the town council on Monday evening.

"We have already been to quite a bit of trouble and expense," said N. L. Mathews, K. C., clerk and solicitor. "The federal government says employees must come under the act unless we exempt them."

ANDREW ST. CITIZEN WANTS TOWN TO RAISE SIDEWALK

A sidewalk in front of his home on Andrew St. needs to be raised six inches for 160 feet, to avoid flooding in the spring, Wm. Winger told the town council on Monday evening.

Councillor Frank Bowser, chairman of the road and bridge committee, said that the committee didn't have the funds to do that much work, but that he would have the foreman look at it.

"We have been putting up with it for 15 years," Mr. Winger said.

Independent Assessment Court Urged By Reeve

ARMSTRONG SUPPORTS
MOVE TO HAVE INDEPENDENTS SIT

Appointment of an independent court of revision of assessment was suggested by Reeve Fred A. Lundy at a town council meeting on Monday evening.

Mr. Lundy gave notice of motion to that effect.

"I have been of the opinion for a number of years that it is not good business for the council to appoint an assessor and then to sit in judgment on his work," said Mr. Lundy.

"I think citizens would be better satisfied with an independent commission," he said, explaining that this was possible under the Municipal Act.

"Who appoints the commission?" asked Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales.

"The council," said Mr. Lundy. "Why not have the council act?" asked Councillor Wm. Dixon.

"Is it good form to appoint a man, and then to back him up and say he is right?" asked Mr. Lundy.

"We don't uphold him," said Mr. Dixon.

"We don't back him up," agreed Dr. Dales.

"Outside commissioners aren't interested in keeping up the assessment," said N. L. Mathews, K. C., clerk and solicitor.

"That's what the public say," replied Mr. Lundy.

"Independent commissioners would take the line of least resistance," said Mr. Mathews.

"As a matter of principle, I think citizens are entitled to representation on the court of revision," said Councillor Arleigh Armstrong.

"Two years ago we lowered more assessments than we upheld," said Councillor Frank Bowser. "I don't think it is a good thing to appoint an assessor year after year without discussion."

PUT WATER IN FOUNTAIN

Councillor Arleigh Armstrong asked that water be turned on in the drinking fountain near the post office, at a town council meeting Monday evening. Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee, promised that this would be done now that there is lots of good water.

INJURED IN COLLISION

Joseph Carrick suffered head injuries when a dairy truck struck his C. N. Express wagon on Huron St. Monday morning. Mr. Carrick had to have stitches in his neck and has been away from work since the accident.

LOSES NEPHEW IN BRITISH PLANE CRASH

Bruce Ralph Brammer of Toronto, nephew of Arthur Brammer of Newmarket, was among eight Canadians who lost their lives in an air crash in Britain during the weekend. Twenty-two men lost their lives in the accident.

Capt. Brammer had been engaged in the work of ferrying American bombers across the Atlantic since last May, a service recently transferred to the R.A.F.

A matriculant of Northern Vocational school, Toronto, he studied and served at the ship navigation beacon on Main Duck Island, near Kingston, at Malton airport and at the Earlton radio range station, before joining the ferrying service last May.

Capt. Brammer is survived by his father, Ralph E. Brammer, of Toronto, and a former Newmarket boy, two sisters, Marjorie and Carol, and a brother, Stuart. Capt. Brammer and his brother, Stuart, made their home with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brammer, for a number of years.

Find Home Fire-Fighting Equipment Up To Mark

Newmarket Fire Brigade under Chief W. W. Osborne made an annual test of hose and hydrants at the York county House of Refuge on Yonge St. on Monday evening.

There is a fire alarm box at the home from which an alarm can be rung in direct, Mr. Osborne explained.

A gasoline pump was used to increase the pressure from 40 to 110 lbs., giving a good stream on two lines of hose, the water coming from a spring-fed tank. There are four hydrants at the home.

"Everything was found in first-class shape," Chief Osborne told The Era.

BUILDS HOUSE

W. L. Widdifield is building a house on Niagara St. Two houses on Simcoe St. are being renovated.

Plan For Improvement Of Widdifield Park Promised

PARKING SPACE AND SWIMMING-POOL BELIEVED IN PLAN

"I will present the council in another week or two with a plan for the improvement of 'Widdifield Park,'" Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales told the town council on Monday evening.

"I am not going to press it, but I think it is a suitable plan," said Dr. Dales. "I think it presents a very nice picture of what can be done with that valuable property."

The plan is being prepared by engineers.

"It's an eyesore now," said Councillor Wm. Dixon. "We can't see some done on it each year," said Dr. Dales. "I think perhaps the part that has to do with parking—providing parking for four or 500 cars—could be gone ahead with this year. Then we can take some drastic action with regard to Main St."

The plan is believed to include a swimming-pool for the town's youngsters.

Councillor Frank Bowser asked if earth could be dumped there.

"Dump all the earth there you like," said Dr. Dales.

"Not without consulting the property committee," said Councillor Wm. Dixon.

"There is a lot of cement from Bosford St. right now," said Mr. Bowser.

"It should be dumped along the railway track," said Dr. Dales.

USED CLOTHING FOR BOMB VICTIMS ASKED

The Red Cross society would like contributions during August of clean, whole clothing to send to British bomb victims.

Anyone with any clothing they would like to give is asked to please leave it at one of the following places: Mrs. W. M. Cockburn's, 8 Court St.; Mrs. McClelland's, 11 Victoria St.; or Mrs. W. R. Stephens, 37 Gormans St.

SAVES GAS ANYWAY

Here's one for you to solve, Mr. Oil Controller Cottrell!

H. M. Gladman, as patriotic a veteran of the great war as you will find anywhere, has to drive 42 miles by motor-car to get his horse shod for the C. N. Express service.

The nearest blacksmith is at Vandorf. He has no telephone. He is seven miles away. Mr. Gladman must drive to Vandorf to make an appointment to go back another day and pick up Mr. Black Smith and bring him to Newmarket. Then he must take him back to Vandorf.

Three trips to Vandorf add up to 42 miles. Once the horse is shod, of course, he saves plenty of gasoline.

TWO GAMES CALLED ACCOUNT DARKNESS

In the semi-final playoffs in the Lake Simcoe league during the past week, Sharon played at Mount Albert on Thursday night, and were leading 4-3, when the game was called. The game will not count, as the full seven innings were not played.

On Friday night Keswick defeated Pine Orchard at Keswick 8-0, and on Tuesday night Mount Albert and Sharon met again, with Mount Albert leading 12-4, when the game was called. This game was not allowed either.

Pine Orchard defeated Keswick at Pine Orchard last night. Sharon and Mount Albert will meet again tonight at Mount Albert, and tomorrow night Keswick will play at Pine Orchard. All games will start at 6 p.m. S.T. from now on.

"Sleeping in a tree will cure insomnia," says a physician. So, for that matter, will sleeping in bed.

BREAD-TRUCK DUPLICATION

The suggestion is made at Ottawa that bakers may not be allowed to make any bread deliveries. The purpose would be to save gasoline. It should also save the public some money, as bread cannot be delivered for nothing. Delivery of bread could be made at an economical cost but at the present time there is much duplication. Each of six or seven bread companies attempts to cover the whole town. The drivers do not call at every house, but they make many calls without sales, and every no-sale call adds to the cost of the product something that is not just delivery cost.

What is the situation in Newmarket? In addition to the two or three local bakers, there are half a dozen outside bakeries selling their products in Newmarket. Just what service do those outside bakers perform? Perhaps they give the housewife a little more choice. Perhaps they give her a loaf that she would not be able to buy otherwise.

On the other hand, they do this: They cut down the volume of business of the local bakers, and prevent the local bakers from providing more variety; they double or treble the cost of selling and delivering bread in the town; and by cutting down the volume of business which the local bakers would otherwise have they put up the cost of making bread. It should be possible to make and sell bread more cheaply in Newmarket than in a city, but the outsiders crowd in and deprive us of one of the advantages of living in a rural centre.

Ottawa is getting warm. There is a lot of unnecessary driving by bread trucks. A moderate step, however, would be not to stop all deliveries but to stop some of the duplication. Let Toronto bakeries divide up their territory or employ a common delivery service. Keep outside bakery trucks out of municipalities already served by local bakeries. Newmarket bakers shouldn't make door-to-door sales in Toronto; Toronto bakers shouldn't make door-to-door sales in Newmarket. If Toronto bakers have a superior loaf to sell which we question, for we have heard Toronto people praise and delight in Newmarket bread, let them market it in other municipalities through retail outlets.

Ottawa, of course, won't do anything so sensible in the elimination of over-competition, lest someone might call it socialism, but there is no reason why our town council couldn't study the situation, to see by what right outside bakers do peddle their wares from door to door in our town. Insofar as saving gasoline is concerned, it is to be remembered that local bakers make some use of horses, whereas outside bakers necessarily use gasoline bringing their bread in and delivering it. The intruders put up the cost of living, waste the energy of drivers who might be doing something more useful, and squander gasoline.

LAWYERS AND EDITORS

"Do you think Mr. King's cabinet would give us better government if 15 of the 19 were editors instead of lawyers?" asks a reader. Most decidedly not. That would be even worse.

We take the above from the Midland-Penitang Free Press-Herald. How does the Midland editor get such a notion? How can he be so disloyal to his confreres of the press? Worse than that, is there any truth in what he says?

Had he said that the editors would be no better than the lawyers we could have taken it. For we remember being told one time by a text-book (and while you don't have to believe text-books, they can shake your faith in your preconceived ideas) that a jury of judges would render no fairer verdict than a jury of workmen.

But the Midland editor says that editors would be worse than lawyers—even worse. What are the respective qualifications of editors and lawyers to govern their fellow men? Both groups have a speaking acquaintance with public affairs before they go into public life. Both are accustomed to sitting down and digging into the problems. The lawyer seeks his solution to the problem according to precedent, according to what has been done before, or according to what the legislature has determined. The editor seeks his solution according to what he has heard his neighbors say, according to his own notions of what is right, and according to what he thinks will make interesting reading.

Which is better qualified to govern? The editor will have the more human, venturesome and original approach, but the lawyer may make less mistakes.

The lawyer learns which side of an argument he is on when a client comes into the office. It just depends on whether the prospective plaintiff comes into his office before the prospective defendant. Once we worked around a lawyer's office, and we overheard an interesting interview between lawyer and would-be client. The lawyer (now deceased) was an authority on the law of shipping. The would-be client started to tell the facts of the case and the lawyer listened sympathetically, already, we suppose, beginning to side in his mind with his new client. Then the would-be client mentioned the name of the other party in the matter. Immediately the lawyer rose and said: "I am sorry, but I am usually retained by the other party. I will have to ask them first if they wish my services. If so, I cannot act for you." So he telephoned the other party, who did want his services. He conveyed this information to the man in his office and said: "I will forget all you have told me."

The lawyer is given his side in an argument, and then he builds up an argument to support the conclusion he started with. The editor starts with the facts or his prejudices, and reasons or tries to reason his way toward a sound conclusion.

The lawyer therefore will make a better party man, for the party man, unless he happens to be the leader of the party, is given his opinions, and must shift for himself for reasons in support of those opinions. Fifteen editors in a cabinet might be all pulling in different directions. That might be hard on what is called cabinet solidarity, but isn't that the trouble with a lot of our cabinets—too much "solidarity"?

Both editors and lawyers are used to taking the public into consideration. The editor has his readers, the lawyer has his jury. Here again the editor is better qualified, for he is used to taking into consideration both his readers and his advertisers (corresponding in public life to voters and substantial party supporters).

Where are we now? Have we got anywhere? The 15 (not our count) lawyers are still in the cabinet and the editors not at home, mere citizens and constituents. Either the editors have decided that they prefer their own field—the so-called fourth estate—or perhaps the public in its wisdom has decided, not that editors would be even worse than lawyers, but that lawyers make better rulers than editors.

NOW'S THE HOUR

Taking for granted that growth is a natural tendency, and that Newmarket has not yet reached old-age, the present is an ideal time to seek new industries.

Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale, chairman of the industrial committee of the town council, has the ability and the connections to make an effective approach to Ottawa for the location in this town or nearby of one of the many new government factories that are being built.

There are also new industries being established in Canada by firms who are ready to construct their own buildings and to pay their way.

That there will be a flood of new industries to Canada from Britain and the continent after the war we do not believe, in spite of the many optimistic prophecies to that effect. That would be locking the barn after the horse had been stolen.

When the war is over there will be another, and better, attempt at setting up a system of international order, and people will settle down again in their pre-war homes in the belief that wars are done forever.

Manufacturers who export to world markets are not going to leave (in great numbers) countries where population is denser, labor cheaper, living standards lower, tariffs lower, to come to Canada. They will settle down right where they are, with the hope that "springs eternal," that there will be no more war.

Mr. Vale and his industrial committee should have every encouragement in advertising and advocating the town's industrial advantages now.

OTTAWA SPEEDS UP INFLATION

The increased cost of living bonus has us puzzled. It seems to be an attempt to take the sacrifice out of the civilian's share in the war. The principal cause of the increased cost of living is taxes on foodstuffs. Another cause is the depreciation of the Canadian dollar in the United States, which is due, we suppose, to the strains Canada is placing upon her financial resources, and to the British and Canadian demand for U.S. exchange or goods.

The government imposes taxes on tea, coffee, sugar, and then attempts to reimburse the people who pay the taxes with an increased cost of living bonus. That would be very nice, if it weren't bound to result in a further increase in the cost of living. The increased cost of living bonus, however welcome, paid to Newmarket municipal employees, for instance, must be reflected to some small extent in next year's tax rate. The increased cost of living bonus paid to C. N. R. employees, and to industrial employees throughout Canada, will result in increased prices and increased taxes, and in an accelerated increase in the cost of living.

The federal government itself, in its leadership in this matter, is starting the very "vicious spiral" which it intended to avoid. The supposed bonus, we think, will prove a boomerang.

Instead of playing with fire, the government would be wiser to attempt to protect working people by making every possible effort to keep up their buying power and real wages. This bonus scheme, conceived by some highly political mind, is grossly unfair to farmers, soldiers' dependents and others and is unlikely to bring any lasting benefit to its recipients.

In conclusion, we would ask wage-earners who do not agree with what we have said to bear in mind that we are not discussing deserved or earned wage increases, but a bonus designed to reimburse the employee for what he has paid out in war taxation but, in our opinion, likely to hurt him eventually far more than it seems to help him at the moment.

IT SEEMS TO US

You can't save too much gasoline. Further restrictions are probably on the way, but the appeal remains voluntary. Are you really a patriot? How much gasoline are you saving, so that tankers may be used to take gasoline to Britain?

What will Vichy do? Collaborate further with the Axis, or Vichy versa?

Hugh Templin, editor of the Fergus News-Record, is going overseas by clipper ship, with a group of newspaper and magazine writers, on the invitation of the British government, so that they can tell Canadians what is going on in Britain. Mr. Templin will be an able representative of the weekly press of Canada.

With prophecies of an early end to the war current, we can all feel a little more cheerful. It has been a long hard grind and there may be as much more still ahead of us, but it is at least cheering to hear the optimistic forecasts now current. Cheers for Russian Slugs for Finland! Defeat for the Nazis!

WHAT OTHERS THINK

SUBSIDIZE THE GAS MAN

(Georgetown Herald)

The necessity of a plan for conserving existing gas and oil supplies for vital war needs, and of releasing transportation facilities for war purposes, is something with which the Canadian people have no argument.

There is, however, one phase of the situation which we have heard little comment about, either from our parliamentary representatives, or from contemporary publications concerning the plight of those thousands of citizens whose daily bread is earned (or was earned) in operating service stations and garages. That the new early and Sunday closing regulations, and the extensive advertising campaign now in progress, will affect these businessmen can readily be seen. If the government achieves its objective of reducing Canadian gas consumption by 50 per cent of the present amount used, it takes no higher mathematics to deduce that the income from gas sales of service station and garage operators will be cut in half.

Does the government owe something to these citizens? Most emphatically, we believe it does. For many years, they have been encouraged in their businesses and have contributed no small amount to the government in the form of licenses and taxes, as well as in helping to produce the revenue from gas and oil taxes. If their income is to be reduced to the point where they cannot operate their places of business, what is going to happen to them?

The government has in the past been generous with certain other classes of business in the country, providing bonuses and subsidies where they deem it necessary. At present, farmers in the western provinces are being paid a bonus for not producing wheat, because wheat is not needed! Why not pay the gas man a bonus for not selling gas, because gas is needed.

SHADOWS

(Temiskaming Speaker)

For those who have eyes to see, the crest of the hill on the road north of Milbert affords a view of as fair a prospect as this district can show. At this season of the year, the landscape is chiefly a pattern in variegated tints of green, with here and there that other touch of color that hints of ripening grain, of fields that soon will be white unto harvest. There is the scent of new-mown hay in the air. In the pastures the cattle graze placidly. If at noon the countryside may seem to shimmer in the heat of a day in late July, there is usually to be found on the hilltop some vagrant breeze of strength enough to bring about a gentle stirring of the grasses and cause the lovely hollyhocks to sway on their slender stalks. The farm gardens are at their greatest glory. The whole land is bathed in the clear sunshine of a Temiskaming summer day, the only shadow visible those cast fleetingly over the fields as white clouds drift lazily across the blue sky and for a brief moment dim the sun's radiance.

There are other shadows, not seen, but nevertheless present in this peaceful scene that appears so far removed from a world at strife, and where the battle line, in these times of rapid transportation, is but a few hours' away from this part of the continent. Families whose homes can be seen from this height have members serving amid perils and dangers of sea and land and air; for them, a shadow they pray may never come closer hovers over their hearths. Others there are, citizens of northern Ontario and Canadians by adoption, who have loved ones in their old homeland, relatives whose goings-out and comings-in ordinarily would be passed in surroundings as serene as those spread before the gaze from the Kerns township vantage point, but who in the stress of the age must move in an atmosphere which gives a deeper meaning to a familiar verse of the Shepherd psalm. It may be, too, there are people from continental Europe, over whom hangs the dread shadow of uncertainty regarding the fate of kinsmen overseas.

The ordered succession of the hours regularly brings rest from labor, relief from the heat and burden of the day as shadows of the evening steal across the sky. In turn, these melt away as another morning dawns. But the shadows which lie over human hearts may not be so easily dispelled, and such things as anxiety and dread and fear, all bred of war's alarms, cannot be shut out of the daily lives of the men and women and children who call Temiskaming home. There was a day when the troubles in other lands had relatively little significance for the people who dwell on this side of the globe, but the annihilation of time and space has changed that feeling of comparative isolation into a sense of nearness that has grim potentialities for so many firesides, round which gather neighbors and friends. For comfort in a testing time, there remains the vision of a brighter world, of a golden age coming when the day shall break and the shadows, those shadows caused by man's inhumanity to man, shall be lifted forever.

YOUNG CHIPS AND NUTTY VISIT A MARSH

By RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"I can't think why you wanted me to visit this marsh with you," Nutty, the White-breasted Nuthatch, complained to his friend, Young Chips, the Chickadee. "I'll admit it's a lovely bird swamp, but surely there's nothing much here that's of interest to us."

"We'll look around anyway, and just see who's here," replied the Chickadee. "Now that we've come all this way, we might as well explore a bit."

"There goes one of those huge Great Blue Herons," said the Nuthatch. "He flaps his tremendous wings so slowly you'd think he'd fall to the ground, wouldn't you?"

"And look at those two Gulls up there, soaring in the wind," said Young Chips eagerly. "That's something that I would like to do and can't. It must be wonderful to spread out your wings and just float in the wind."

"Ordinary flying is good enough for me," stated the Nuthatch firmly. "I have my own kind of tree-trunk acrobatics which makes me distinctive, and I don't long for any peculiar style of flying."

"Speaking of peculiar styles of flying, who on earth can that be over to the north?" Young Chips asked. "He seems to be a rather big bird and he's flying in a sort of corkscrew manner. He twists and turns. Why on earth doesn't he fly straight?"

"Let's slip over and see where he lands," suggested the Nuthatch, getting interested. The two friends flew over toward the other bird and stopped in the small bush to look carefully around them.

"Why, there he is, right in plain sight, on the very top of that 'No Shooting' sign," exclaimed the Chickadee. "What a tremendously long bill he's got! He's pleasantly plump, too, and a sort of sand color, trimmed with some brown and touches of white."

"It must be an American Woodcock," suggested the Nuthatch.

"No, it's Jack Snipe (Wilson's Snipe)," the Chickadee said. "The Woodcock is much rounder than that and has a different shape. It's hard to describe it, but their figures are quite different. The Woodcock has more buff-colored underparts and a shorter tail and legs, also."

"And that queer twisty flight that we noticed proves you are right," Nutty exclaimed. "I had forgotten about it for the moment. He's started to give his call. It's quite loud, isn't it? It sounds as if he were saying 'escape, escape.'"

"I hope he does escape, when the hunting season comes around again," sighed Young Chips. "They are very popular game birds, unfortunately. So much so that they're quite rare now."

"There's a funny-looking brown stick over there," remarked Nutty the Nuthatch. "I could have sworn that it moved then. It's queer how eyes play tricks sometimes."

"Your eyes didn't play you any tricks that time, my boy," Young Chips advised him. "That's an American Bittern over there, playing safe for some reason. He's stiffened so that he looks like a stick, but he certainly isn't one. I can see it's a good thing I brought you up here, for you've forgotten some of your marsh lore."

"Listen to that queer pumping sound!" Nutty commanded his friend a few seconds later. "That wouldn't be a Florida Gallinule, would it? I know he is one of the commonest marsh birds around places like this."

"You are sadly ignorant," the Chickadee chirped in amazement. "A Gallinule gives a series of funny cackles. That pumping is our friend, the Bittern, again. He's moved and now he's giving his pumping call from a hidden position somewhere else. Do you suppose you've even known a Florida Gallinule if you saw one?"

"I don't suppose so," admitted the Nuthatch humbly. "What does he look like?"

"He's a slate-blue bird with a dark head, white streaks on his sides," Young Chips started to explain.

"I'd never recognize him from those characteristics," broke in Nutty.

"Wait a minute, I hadn't finished," Young Chips told him. "You will always recognize him by his bright red bill and frontal plate and his green legs, with red garters just below the feathering."

"That's better," said Nutty. "In fact, I see one right now, over in that little patch of open water."

"Quite right," agreed Young Chips. "And don't forget that there's another Gallinule, the Purple, with a blue bill, yellow legs and a shiny purplish neck and underparts. They're quite uncommon here, though, and are usually seen much farther south."

"My, my, I've learned something up here, after all," said Nutty. "Perhaps it was a good idea to come. I think we ought to go over to the other side of the marsh and just glance around there, too, before we go home."

"A fine idea, my friend," agreed the Chickadee happily. "I can probably teach you lots more when we get over there."

The Common Round

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS

By Isabel Inglis Colville

These are the days when on highways and even on the less travelled roads there is a constant stream of traffic—tourists and holidayers, those on business and those of us who take little evening drives to get refreshed up after the heat has taken its toll of vitality.

And the highways and the byways are like movies and there's tragedy, drama, sentiment and comedy, if we have eyes to see and ears to hear.

On the screen there are always people who are defying the law or taking a chance, and in the highway movies one sees concrete evidence of what the screen pictures — cars passing with what look like only inches to spare, passing on hills, passing on curves, and all going as if pursued by his Satanic majesty.

The warning signs seem so utterly inadequate, for the only people who read them are the ones travelling at a reasonable rate—the 60-70 mile an hour drivers don't see them—they are going someplace in such a hurry that they have no time to spare for their own safety—let alone that of others.

"I thought people were to conserve gasoline and double up in the use of their cars," said a friend, as we watched the trek from the lake after the weekend. "There's been only one man in each of those big cars that passed just now," she went on, "and everyone of them going like the wind."

"Most of them have radios in their cars and are no doubt listening to someone asking them not to do the very things they ARE doing," said another woman, as we watched two cars race for the hill, each jockeying for position and bringing back childish recollections of the chariot race in Ben Hur.

"Is it wilful disregard of what the government asks or just thoughtlessness?" I asked.

"Maybe they just don't like to drive with someone else at the wheel—I know I'm always putting brakes on when I do," said my better half charitably.

"Yes, but you're doubling up going to work," I reminded him. "Of course—weren't we asked to?" said he inconsistently.

"Well—well," he mimicked. "I thought it was only women who were allowed to be inconsistent," I told him.

"Let the poor men in on it once in a while," he finished.

"Have you noticed one funny thing," asked Mrs. H. as we watched the endless panorama, "that the bigger the car and the more modern—the fewer the riders?" This is a car of ancient vintage, with many wheezes and rattles passed. On top was a cot with its legs sticking up and piled inside bedding and boxes and to top off—a bicycle. Children peeped from the windows and a near-white woolly dog hung over a door.

Passing it was a gorgeous 1941 creation—inside, one large, important-looking gentleman, who no doubt had enough weighty affairs in his head to outweigh the happy-go-lucky load he left limping along behind.

"I'd rather be in the old car with the dog," said a small boy who had been watching and listening. "I bet that dog knows a lot."

"And the little old Ford just rambled right along," hummed my better half as he went off to his shingling.

And on the byways these hot evenings there are the sunset and moonlight movies—the beauty of a rose and daffodil sky reflected in a little pond or in a grander body of water; the wild sweet smell of the woods where no sound is heard save the birds singing vesper.

I always feel that back in those woods that at night look so untouched by man, the animals hold their parliaments and discuss their problems, and when, along the roadside we see a tiny pair of green headlights, I feel sure it is some little creature hurrying to the meeting to give voice to its grievances or joy, and when one sees the way animals are sometimes treated, one has no doubt that grievances predominate.

Sometimes as we draw nearer the lights of homes again, we meet "a lover and his lass," arms about each other, oblivious to the passing of time or traffic, conscious only of "love's young dream," and we manage to build up quite a romance about them—no doubt they'd be amused could they hear our suppositions and predictions.

But whether it's sunset or moonlight, lovers or workers, limousines or limpers, trucks or trailers, combines or hay-wagons, it all seems up to Canada, the land we love: the land that is worth fighting for and living for—the land of home!

POLICE COURT

CHIEF SLOSS TELLS OF CHASE AFTER CAR

Pleading guilty to giving a worthless cheque to Harry Goodman, Newmarket, in exchange for merchandise, Harvey A. Shaw, Queanville, was given a suspended sentence by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in Newmarket police court on Tuesday.

Mr. Goodman, who laid the fraud charge, told his worship that he was in the auto-wrecking business in Newmarket and that the defendant had given him a cheque for $69.40, which was returned when he deposited it in the bank. He said that he was informed that Mr. Shaw had no account in the bank. He told his worship that the defendant had made restitution before the court opened.

"That is a dangerous practice to get into," Magistrate Woodliffe told Mr. Shaw. "If you are not careful, you will find yourself behind bars. I am giving you a suspended sentence on payment of costs of $12."

Pleading guilty to illegal possession of liquor, Gordon Tripp, Pickering, was fined $10 and costs of $3.35 and his liquor confiscated. Magistrate Woodliffe again adjourned the manslaughter charge against Harry Muir and Thomas Wright, Toronto. The two men, who must appear in court on Sept. 2 to answer the charge that they "by wilful misconduct while driving an automobile on the 9th concession of Whitechurch did unlawfully cause the death of James Thomas (of Toronto)," are each on bail of $2,000. The accident occurred on July 7.

"This is a very serious thing to do, you are making yourself liable for a minimum sentence of one year," his worship told Private Francis C. Lawson, Camp Borden, who was charged with the theft of an automobile and with dangerous driving.

According to the testimony of John Frost, Sutton, owner of the stolen car, he had gone to a friend's home and left his car parked in the driveway. "It was about five minutes to twelve, midnight," the witness testified. "I was in at my friend's for about five minutes and when I came out the car was gone. I reported it to Constable Hill."

"Did you give the accused permission to take the car?" asked Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

Mr. Frost replied that he did not know the defendant or give him permission to use the car.

"What was the condition of the car when it was returned to you?" asked the crown.

"It was not in bad condition," replied the witness. "There were a few dents in the fender. About $25 will fix it up."

Constable William Hill, Sutton, said that when he was notified of the disappearance of the car he telephoned Provincial Constable George Hughes of Beaverton and Chief James Sloss of Newmarket.

"I went to Hamilton's Corner (corner of Huron and 3rd concession of East Gwillimbury)," testified Constable James Sloss. "I waited there about 15 minutes, when I noticed a car going towards Newmarket at a great rate of speed. It bore the license number for which I was looking. I followed it for about three miles. In making three corners it was going so fast that it slowed sideways."

"When the car came to Main and Huron Sts. the driver turned north on Main. This road has a number of bends before it straightens out. The car slowed around these bends. I fired two or three shots. The driver, Mr. Lawson, lost control of the car and went into the ditch. I ordered him to stay in the car but he got out and tried to escape."

"Was he in uniform?" asked the crown.

"Yes, he was," replied the officer.

"What was his condition?"

"He was sober. He had been drinking. The smell of alcohol was on his breath, but he was sober," Chief Sloss said that he placed the soldier under arrest and took him to the Newmarket jail.

In his own defence Pte. Lawson stated: "The officer pointed out that I was sober. That, I suppose, is true, as I sobered up after the accident. I was drunk before or I wouldn't have taken the car."

"Then you were driving while drunk?" asked the crown. "Yes," replied Pte. Lawson.

"Isn't this a dangerous thing to do?" "Yes, it is."

The defendant's commanding officer advised Magistrate Woodliffe that Pte. Lawson had been in the army a year. "He has been a very good man. He has been recommended for stripes."

"Lawson, this is a very serious thing to do, you could have been charged under a different act and you could have gone to jail for a minimum of one year. If this ever happens again you'll most likely be convicted and there is no chance of suspending sentence again. I am taking into consideration that this is your first offence and that you have a good military record. I am placing you on suspended sentence of one year on both accounts. You must pay the costs and make restitution."

After five witnesses testified in the preliminary hearing, Albert Cox, Newmarket military camp, who was charged on two counts with a serious offence against a girl under 15 years of age, and also with abduction, was committed for trial before a higher court.

Pleading guilty to having seven passengers hanging on the outside of his car as he drove on the highway at Aurora, Robert Stephenson, Toronto, was fined $5 and costs.

"It was too hot inside, so they got outside to keep cool," the defendant told his worship.

"That was a stupid thing to do," commented the magistrate. "Some of them might have fallen off and been injured."

Property bail of $1,000 was allowed Bert Sherman, Aurora, charged with forgery and breaking and entering the home of Dr. S. Mason, Aurora, and also breaking and entering the premises of the Grover Shoe Co., Aurora. His worship ordered that the defendant, who is a deaf-mute, be examined by the jail doctor. A sister of the defendant acted as interpreter.

Pleading guilty to having liquor for sale in his home in Aurora, Walter Broome was sentenced to jail for two months. His house was declared an open place and the liquor confiscated.

Sergeant William Martindale testified that on Aug. 9, at 9:15 p.m., Constable Leo Wallace and a military officer went to the defendant's home and purchased beer with a marked dollar bill. Fifteen minutes later he (Martindale) and Constable Fisher, Aurora, went to the house and found the two police officers seated at a table with a quart of beer each. Constable Martindale stated that they had some difficulty locating the marked $1 but later found that Mrs. Broome had it.

Charges of illegal possession against Mr. Broome and also against Anna Broome, his wife, were withdrawn.

Cases adjourned for one week were: Joseph Myers, Newmarket, illegal possession and careless driving; Murray Stein, Toronto, careless driving; and Harry D. Jones, Toronto, fraud.

Speeding charges adjourned were all against Toronto motorists. They were: Thomas Miller, Harry Lehman, Toronto; Edna Storage, August Kromper, Edward Peters, L. Robins, Levy Auto Parts and D. Johnson.

A two weeks adjournment was granted John Napier, Toronto, charged with leaving the scene of an accident and dangerous driving. The number of speeding cases heard took a downward slide to 27 cases from last week's 72.

Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson, who patrols No. 11 highway, gave evidence in five cases. They were: It. A. McLennan, Brantford, who drove at 70 miles an hour and was fined $10 and costs; Henry Biles, Toronto; Daniel J. Kenny, Newmarket; John D. McNabb, Rocher's Point; and Louis Shefferson, Toronto, each fined $5 and costs for driving at 60 miles an hour.

For travelling through Aurora at 50 miles an hour "Tuckett" Little Ltd., Toronto, and Duncan Robertson, Hamilton, were each fined $10 and costs.

Edmund Miller, Dunnville, and Flora Simpson, Toronto, were each fined $8 and costs for driving at 45 miles an hour through the same town. Constable Fisher Dunnville testified in each case.

Constable Kenneth Mount fined the following motorists who were exceeding the speed limit in Newmarket. All were from Toronto and with the exception of Sam Starbuck, who was fined $5 and costs for going 42 miles an hour, were all fined $5 and costs for travelling 40 miles an hour. They were: Dr. H. E. Hopkins, Charles Webb, Dr. Robert Mann and Charles Saunders.

Rapld Grip and Batten, whose driver was fined by Constable James Sloss, was fined $10 and costs for going 50 miles an hour in Newmarket.

E. P. Jackson, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs (53 miles an hour); Fred Pickering, Toronto, was fined $8 and costs (45 miles an hour); and Jack Young, Toronto, was fined $5 and costs (43 miles an hour). Constable Alex. McCullum gave evidence that they were speeding in North Gwillimbury.

Constable William Hill, Sutton, fined Ralph O'Neill, Toronto, at 45 miles an hour. He was fined $8 and costs.

Douglas Gratton, Toronto, who passed a stop-light on Yonge St., was fined $3 and costs.

Dew and Due

"Daddy, what is dew?" asked Bobby.

"The rent, the note at the bank and the instalment on my car," growled his dad.

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Era: Why I should take the time to write this letter is a question. It is more or less of an unwritten law that municipal officials, particularly paid officials, are fair game for any insinuations, gossip or what have you.

Having been one of the much maligned individuals in the corporation of Newmarket for the past three years or so and having left a goodly number of friends and others on whom I may have rubbed the hair the wrong way, I can at last say a few things on my own, and without any of the above mentioned barbs of which I, and my family to some extent, have been the recipients.

In the first place, my resignation was tendered for reasons which were submitted in writing to the committee for review, and had they been acted on at that time, or some reasonable agreement reached, the picture might have been different.

I may also say that to my mind the most important points in this document concerned the safety of the citizens of Newmarket, and myself and family as operator and residents at the Water St. plant.

It was not my intention to revive any of these questions but in view of the published cracks, knocks and insinuations thrown after my departure, I feel that I have a right to be heard with at least part of the other side of the story.

And now, Mr. Editor, I would like to deal with the statements made on your contemporary's editorial page a week ago. Had it cared to avail itself of the facts regarding the condition of the waterworks system, it could hardly have printed the insinuation it did. The true facts are that I was the busiest and hardest worked person in the town of Newmarket during the month of July, trying to remedy a condition which was positively no fault of mine (this is borne out by your engineer's report) and also by midnight sessions with your consulting engineers and committee and council. In addition, I gave all the information I had possession of to your consulting engineers and assisted in various ways to speed up the return of this report to council.

In regard to the meter-testing board Mr. Bowser seemed so concerned about, he has insinuated that the committee were not on their toes, or that they let something be put over on them, which was not even tried or thought of. The material was secured through usual legitimate channels, which can be verified, was not paid for by Newmarket until I received the cheque. As regards the time mentioned having been spent on it by Mr. Morrison, this was more of an educational feature, which was made available to all the other electrical employees and particularly Mr. Morrison, as he was the foreman in charge of meters and would be more concerned with the circuits and operation of it.

As for my own time on it, this was in the evenings and Saturday afternoons, of which there were plenty that I could go nowhere and being tied down at that place I had to do something to keep from "going nuts."

In addition to all this I supplied some of the equipment in the new fire alarm control board, which the chairman also had pointed out to him. Now going a little further the town had the use of "ropes, blocks, chains, bars and other equipment had the past three years, that I purchased during the time I was in the contracting business. Ask the employees, they'll tell you what they had to work with when I came there.

Also 80 percent of the town mileage on my car, paid out of my own pocket, was for purely town business, or how would I have been able to cover the territory served, including parterly sections, in the short periods of time I was able to take someone else from their work in order that I could go out and look after consumers' and corporation interests.

As far as I am concerned I tried to carry out my duties honestly, fearlessly and without partially to anyone, and if I were guilty of all the sins of omission and commission that rumor has charged me with I should be able to live retired now, or would have hardly resigned from so lucrative and soft a position.

In closing I wish your town every success with its new water system but was disappointed to see that the reeve had sounded a note of hesitation. You are within sight of the half-mile post in the electrical system and with the added loads on the system you cannot stop. You either go ahead or back.

Yours truly,
C. C. Rachar.

Editor, The Era: What constitutes a legal Sunday sale in Canada? This question is being frequently asked, and is of sufficient general interest to warrant asking the privilege of your columns to give the information to your readers.

In this province of Ontario there are two laws that govern Sunday observance. There is pre-Confederation Upper Canada Act of 1845, frequently spoken of as the Ontario Lord's Day law, and the Lord's Day Act of Canada, enacted by the dominion parliament in 1906.

Both laws forbid the sale of general merchandise, making some exceptions under the terms of necessity and mercy. The sale of food for consumption on the premises has been declared legal on Sundays by Ontario courts, thus validating the serving of meals, lunches and light refreshments. These courts have declared also that merchandise sold on Sundays to be taken from the premises involves violation of law. All that can be purchased before Sundays, without endangering its quality for use on that day, has been declared illegal. This applies equally to refreshment stands and markets along the highways, and to merchants in cities, towns, villages and rural communities.

Law-abiding merchants who close their places of business in compliance with these Sunday laws are entitled to freedom from unfair competition through illegal Sunday sales. Those open to meet legitimate needs on Sundays are required to restrict their sales on that day within the provisions of Canadian law.

Purchasers are equally liable with merchants in the case of illegal purchases, and should restrict their demands on Sundays within the law. Law-abiding citizens contribute to the good morale of their community.

Responsibility for the enforcement of these laws rests primarily upon the municipal police, and it is quite unnecessary for them to await special instructions before performing their duty in this regard. No municipal council has power to amend the provisions of these laws, or suspend their operation within any municipality. No municipal official has authority to give any "permit" to violate these laws, or to interfere with the police in their duties.

We appeal to all citizens to give personal recognition to these reasonable and valuable laws, and give consideration to the rights of others in the enjoyment of their Sunday freedom from toil.

Yours sincerely,
George G. Webber,
General Secretary.

PEPPER AND SALT

By FEF

Soon, once the hardball playoffs are done, organized sport in Newmarket goes into a tailspin until winter and hockey comes along. High school rugby is only rationed on an exhibition basis now and the fall track and field meets have also been discontinued indefinitely. And whether Newmarket will have a junior hockey team next winter is in doubt.

The army vs. air force boxing show promoted by the Veterans a while back was a good one and could stand repeating in the near future. The arena was about three-quarters filled and the applause at times shattered the timbers at least a little. Cost of entry into the arena was nominal and should be kept that way if other fight cards are in the making.

Several gasless cars were in evidence here last (gasless) Sunday and had to be towed to their destination. At least one patriotic citizen, starting off on a down-grade, coasted as far as he could before putting on the gas. Those of us who have to walk to work, to the movies, etc., need have no qualms about "stepping on it" when we are in a hurry.

Many graduates of Newmarket high school are entering college this fall, some with definite goals in mind and others just to increase their store of "mindful matter." Several girls will train in nursing and perhaps in a few years will marry doctors or discerning patients. One thing we know, the graduates are now, as the guest speakers at commencement evening tell us, "launching on the sea of life." Let's hope that they do not measure their success in life in dollars and cents but in what they can do for other people. When they reach a ripe old age they'll take pride in counting their friends and let the other fellow count his dollars.

The Queen's York Rangers will be home this weekend after a two-week sojourn at Camp Niagara. Many from Newmarket got crew-cuts at local barber-shops before going to camp, to help ward off the heat. A "crew cut" leaves only a little tuft at the top of one's head. Maybe, in effect, it's something like a mint julep.

Davis Leather won the first game of the play-offs from the Office Specialty hardball entry last week and they are slight or more than slight favorites in many books to take the honors this year. The camp deteriorated after their best pitchers went away in the last transfer of troops and they have only a fair chance of winning the title.

The Office Specialty has even less chance and it looks as though the town and tannery will fight it out for the championship. The hardball season started out looking like the team with the best pitchers

Canada, enacted by the dominion parliament in 1906.

TELEPHONE RESEARCH AIDS HARD OF HEARING

A new and improved audiphone—the "orthophone"—has recently been designed by Bell Telephone Laboratories. Utilizing three midget vacuum tubes, this new hearing aid gives powerful amplification without distortion over a very broad range of tones. A tone discriminator suppresses low-pitched background noises, making speech clearer. The volume can be turned up without introducing sudden blasts from loud sounds. Stylish, compact, durable, with long battery life, it sets a new standard of excellence in its field.

Early hearing aids were of the trumpet or the sounding board type, which were helpful but which distorted sound badly. When the telephone was invented, partially deaf persons found it an "aid" to hearing, and often used it in preference to direct conversations. This fact suggested the use of "portable telephones" as hearing aids, and the first practical set of this type was produced about 1900.

When Bell Telephone Laboratories developed the audiphone, it became possible to obtain a more exact knowledge of hearing impairments. Through an earphone, a patient listens to "tones" of gradually decreasing volume until he can hear them no longer. By this method, the extent of his hearing loss can be measured.

With the audiphone, the widest survey of hearing ever made was conducted at the Bell System exhibit in the New York and San Francisco World's Fairs. More than 750,000 visitors, aged from 10 to 60 years, took these tests. Results of this survey indicate that only one out of every 100 persons has hearing impairments that interfere with the use of the telephone, one out of 125 has difficulty in hearing face-to-face conversation, and one in 25 has trouble in hearing in an auditorium. Women generally hear higher tones better than men, who excel in the lower range, and as hearing deteriorates with age, this difference between the sexes is accentuated. The survey could find no indication of hearing "fatigue" toward the end of the day, although loud sounds tend to deaden the hearing for short periods. Noise has a "masking" effect on hearing, and low or high-pitched noise interferes less with conversation than noise having a medium pitch of 500 to 1,600 vibrations a second.

To assist the hard of hearing, the audiphone was developed. In the simplest type, a very small microphone attached to the user's coat lapel picks up the sounds, which are then amplified (if necessary) and transmitted to a receiver inserted in the ear. The receiver is specially moulded to fit the individual's ear. In cases where there is an obstruction inside the ear, the receiver consists of a vibrating plate pressed against the head on the mastoid bone, through which the vibrations are carried to the auditory nerve. Group audiphones are used in churches and auditoriums.

Although the telephone aids most persons who are hard of hearing, some with very severe impairment require special equipment for telephone talking. A small box installed beside the telephone is provided with a switch, by means of which the user can amplify sounds coming over the telephone to any extent required. A small auxiliary receiver may also be obtained, and with a receiver over each ear, the user can converse comfortably in noisy locations. For persons who cannot hear the ordinary telephone bell, special gongs and visual lamp signals are available.

Here is an interesting example of the way research in the telephone field has led to developments in other fields. These, in turn, have helped to provide a broader and more efficient telephone service.

Thirty-six correct answers were sent in for last week's contest and a few others were too late to be counted. The answers were: roomed, cabinet, bantam, cooking, fireplace, plenty, condition, churches. Ceyplut was the "red herring" word which didn't make a sensible word.

Councillor J. L. Spillotte, Newmarket merchant, drew the five winners this week from these 36 correct answers. The winners of double passes to the Strand theatre are: Miss Della McKinnley, Schomberg; Mrs. R. Teasdale, Newmarket; Miss Mary Lanigan, Sutton West; Miss Irene Sedore, Newmarket; and Miss Dora McClure, Newmarket, R.R. 1.

They may attend the Strand theatre either next Tuesday evening to see Loretta Young in "The Lady from Cheyenne," and "Tight Shoes," or next Thursday evening to see Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour in "Road to Zanzibar," and "Black Cat," and may obtain their passes any evening at the theatre or on the night they attend.

BOMBED CHILDREN'S

expense and effort if the child can be spared from being crippled for life. The Lions carry this work on twelve months of the year but they solicit help only to help put over their grand carnival.

Lions To Help British Kiddies

The following letter has been received from Lord Southwood, chairman of Britain's famous Hospital for Sick Children in London, and the Lions club is sponsoring a fund which will be opened at a special booth at their carnival next Wednesday:

"This letter comes to you from the heart of London. Whatever your own difficulties at the moment—and I know they must be many—I want you please to spare just a few minutes to read about a tragedy that has befallen the greatest hospital for sick children in the world."

"You may have read in the papers that a children's hospital in central London had been bombed. That hospital was the Hospital for Sick Children at Great Ormond St."

"For years men and women had toiled devotedly and unceasingly to rebuild this famous children's hospital. The greater part of a beautiful modern building had been completed at a cost of over £350,000. Then, in the night, came the bombs."

"Doctors and nurses and the hospital staff fought a fire the flames of which roared into the air. They battled through the roaring floods, shoulder-deep from the burst water mains. Every baby in the hospital was saved. By a miracle not a single little life was lost."

"The wreckage remains—and amid that wreckage the hospital that has never closed its doors since the day it was first opened, in 1852, carries on."

"I am sending you with this letter a little of the rubble that was once part of the magnificent building that Hitler has bombed. I am sending, too, a few photographs that will give you some idea of this act of wanton destruction against innocent little children."

"On behalf of the children who have been so outrageously wronged—on behalf, too, of those wonderful men and women of the hospital staff who, through flame and flood and fury, carried their little charges to safety—I appeal to you to help."

"In your position I know only too well that you have many appeals that may seem to make a more immediate claim upon you. Far be it from me to ask for your help at the expense of any local charity—but I do ask you to look upon this very urgent appeal as something quite apart."

"For children—sick and suffering children—are in a special sense the responsibility of every one of us. They are, too, the coming generation—the men and women of the future to whom, when victory comes, we must look to build a better and safer world."

"When I tell you that our hospital is £175,000 on the wrong side and that, war or no war, this debt must be paid off, you will appreciate the tremendously difficult task with which I am faced."

"The work of the Hospital for Sick Children is world-wide—our tiny patients come to it from every corner of the empire and the doctors and nurses who are trained here go forth on their missions of healing all over our country and to countries beyond the seas."

"Many of the little ones who come to us are the children of those grand men who are fighting to defend our empire and our liberty. To help now is to earn their undying gratitude. Your assistance now will give us the assurance that one day—and may that day come soon—the Angel of Mercy shall once again beckon little children where the destroying angel has just been."

"Please do this for us—your kindness in this dark hour will never be forgotten."

A 100-lb. bag of sugar won at a previous carnival has been donated by the winner to be used in connection with donations to this fund. CANADA'S WAR ON

In Toronto Saturday Night
(From the Rural Co-operator)

A noted public health authority in the United States recently observed that the Renaissance marked humanity's great upswing from the dark ages towards art, learning, literature and beauty in every form. The French Revolution was the beginning of a world-wide fight for political freedom. I believe that today we see the stirring of an equally great popular and international movement towards health—the people's fight for freedom from disease—for the right to be born well and to live well.

Science has shown the way. It is for public opinion and public leadership to put to practical use the knowledge which has been acquired.

So let us during this time of war, when health and fitness are a prime requisite of success, devise and press forward new and broader measures in the field of public health, erecting perhaps a structure in the realm of health policy which will stand forever as a monument to the sacrifices of this tragic conflict.

We have taken precautions for the health of the troops overseas. Likewise we must take precautions on this great home front in Canada. We must keep

A little Newmarket girl narrowly escaped drowning a week ago last Friday in Glenville pond. Howard Moffat of Toronto heard the child's cries for help and rescued her.

W.I. WILL HOLD PICNIC

The August meeting of the Newmarket Women's Institute will be held in the form of a picnic at the farm residence of Mrs. Arthur Boyd, north Yonge St., on Thursday, Aug. 21.

Public responsibility for the national health is chiefly concerned with preventing disease. We do this by quarantine regulations, pure food laws, sewage disposal schemes, provision of pure water supplies, pasteurization of milk and similar measures.

Many other diseases have been materially reduced by the pasteurization of milk. In Montreal, since pasteurization was adopted, the number of infant deaths from intestinal complaints, has dropped from more than 1,800 every year to 200, just one-ninth of the former total.

Certain rural municipalities of western Canada employ a municipal physician. Everybody is free to go to him for advice and treatment. The improvement in community health has been amazing. In Manitoba among the municipalities having this service the death rate among mothers at child-birth has been reduced to less than half the rate prevailing in the rest of the province.

Typhoid fever deaths have been reduced by two-thirds, scarlet fever by 60 per cent, diphtheria by 75 per cent, tuberculosis by about one-third. This means the saving of thousands of lives. But I am not giving these figures to encourage complacency. My object is to show that public health measures pay in the saving of human lives.

In peace-time the casualties among new-born children were greater than our war losses in a similar period.

Rev. F. W. Craik officiated. The church was prettily decorated with ferns and summer flowers. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Olive Searles, A.T.C.M., and during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love" was sung by Miss Beatrice Curtis.

The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. Wm. Pavy, looked lovely in a gown of white sheer over taffeta, the bodice fashioned with short puffed sleeves and the very full skirt extending into a slight train. Her full-length veil of embroidered net was held with orange blossoms in halo effect and she carried Better-times roses.

Miss Loreta Sedwick was bridesmaid in a frock of tea-rose pink sheer over taffeta, similar to the bride's, with matching turban and mittens. She carried Bride-like roses and blue cornflowers. The flower girl was Miss Melba Pavy, niece of the bride, wearing turquoise blue taffeta, floor-length, and a nosegay of sweet peas. The best man was Mr. Eric Bunn of Aurora, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Harold Pavy, brother of the bride, and Mr. Thomas S. Preston, of Toronto, brother-in-law of the groom.

TO PROVE WAR CHARGES

Hon. W. P. Mulock, postmaster-general, denied the truth of charges made against Prime Minister King by Col. C. E. Reynolds and Hon. W. D. Herriedge, when he spoke at a big drumhead service at Sutton on Sunday.

Col. Mulock inspected the 80th company of the Reserve Veterans' Guard and then addressed the Veterans' Guard and members of the York County Veterans' Association.

The postmaster-general denied the charges made by Col. Reynolds, president of the Canadian Corps Association, and by Hon. Mr. Herriedge, when they spoke at the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, on July 29 and accused Mr. King of having tried to limit Canada's participation in the war.

"Colonel Reynolds declared that Mr. King had asked Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to tell the members of the British House of Commons that as Canada was to be the arsenal of the empire he did not need, or expect, an expeditionary force from this country," said Col. Mulock.

"Colonel Reynolds, in making this claim, stated that on a visit to England he called on a high British officer and that the first thing this officer said to him was: 'Why doesn't your Prime Minister mean to send us an expeditionary force?'" Col. Reynolds alleged that he said he didn't think that this was the case, and that, in reply, the British officer said: 'Come back tomorrow and I'll show you the proof.'

Col. Mulock then turned to the charge made by Major Herriedge, to the effect that a high official in England had told him the Canadian government, in consequence of entering the Commonwealth Air Training scheme, wished the British government to issue a statement that no further contribution was expected from Canada.

"I have also discussed Major Herriedge's charge with Mr. King, and he has authorized me to say in his behalf that there is absolutely no truth in the statement made," said Col. Mulock.

YOUNG CHURCH WORKER Dies, Graduated 1940

The death occurred on Wednesday of last week of a well-known Aurora girl, Helen Janet Patterson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson. Mr. Patterson is a well-known Aurora merchant.

Miss Patterson died at the Brant hospital, Brantford. She attended the Presbyterian missionary and deaconess training home for two years and graduated Aug. 18, 1940, before taking up her missionary duties at the end of August of that year.

There was a special ceremony in St. Andrew's church on her departure. She did missionary work among the Indians in Birtle, Man., until the spring of this year, when, through ill health, she returned home.

Miss Patterson was active in church work here before entering training school, being a teacher in the Presbyterian Sunday-school held office in the Young Women's Auxiliary and was a member of the choir.

Miss Patterson was born in St. Thomas and came to Aurora eight years ago with her parents.

The funeral took place on Saturday with a service at St. Andrew's church. Interment was in Aurora cemetery.

GETTING SATISFACTION

"Well," said the Englishman (you know him) to the Scot (you know him, too), as they alighted from the London-Glasgow express, "it's been a long and tiring journey."

COMMANDES UNIT

Lieut.-Col. Gordon Collinson of Aurora, officer commanding the 7th Toronto Field Regiment R.C.A., is in command of this unit at Niagara camp. Their training period lasts until Aug. 17. The gun loaned to the regiment by the town of Aurora is not yet in use but is being reconditioned by the armorers.

It will be very difficult, I am sure, for the Canadian people to believe that the British authorities would maintain in office any high official who would be capable of such an act. I wonder if Col. Reynolds realizes the full implications of this statement. In making it he has not only made a charge against the prime minister, but he has also alleged a grave breach of trust on the part of a British officer in time of war. He doesn't name any specific individual and therefore casts doubt on the integrity of numerous high British officers. In order then to clear up this situation and to remove the stigma which he has placed on these innocent officials, I call upon Col. Reynolds to name at once, and without delay, under oath, the officer whom he alleged showed to him the certified copy of the telegram, and to state who certified it to be correct.

"I have discussed this matter with the prime minister of Canada," said Col. Mulock. "I did so for the reason that I was not a minister of the crown at the time of Col. Reynolds' trip to England. As a result I wish to state that Mr. King has advised me definitely that no such telegram was ever sent to Mr. Chamberlain or to any other member of the British government, by himself or by the Canadian government. Col. Reynolds, when making this charge, challenged Mr. King to deny it. I have Mr. King's full authority to do so on his behalf."

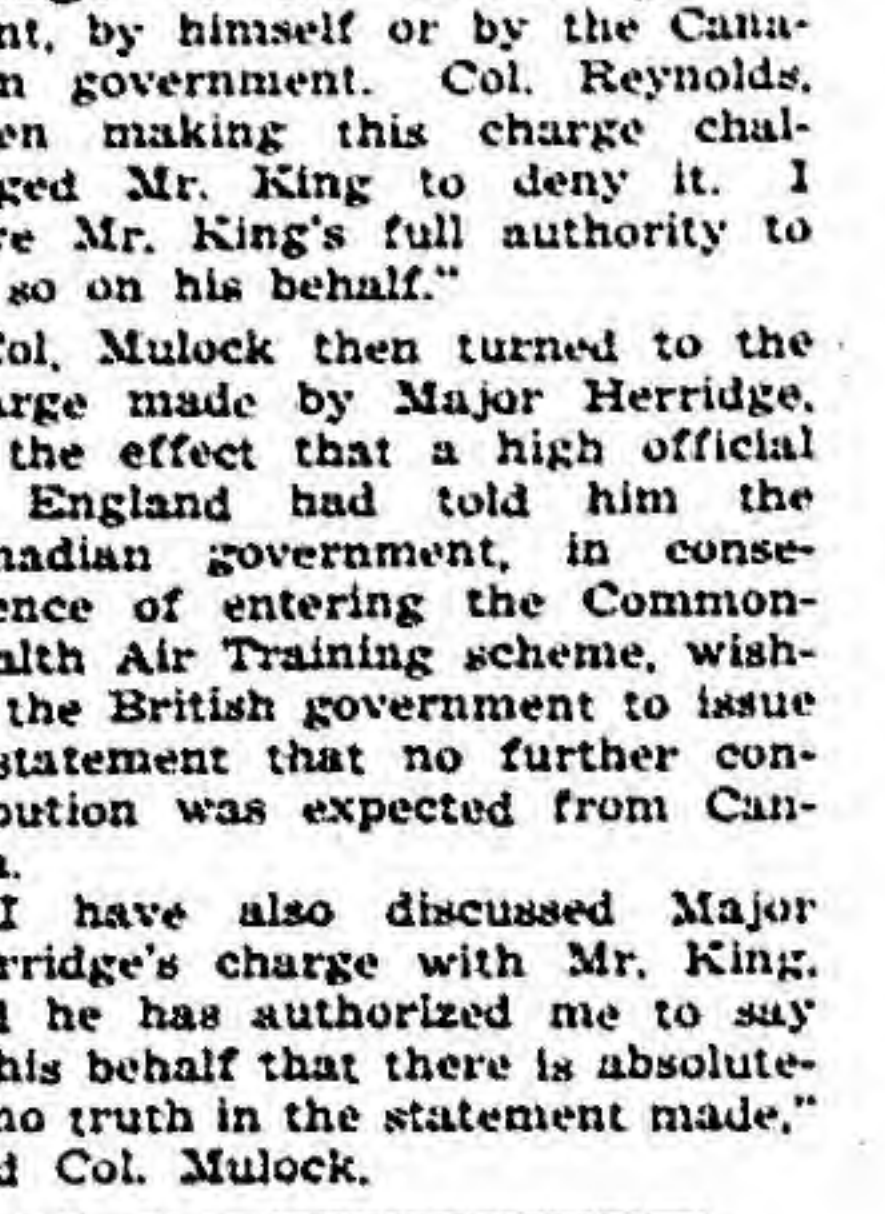

Col. Mulock then turned to the charge made by Major Herriedge, to the effect that a high official in England had told him the Canadian government, in consequence of entering the Commonwealth Air Training scheme, wished the British government to issue a statement that no further contribution was expected from Canada.

"I have also discussed Major Herriedge's charge with Mr. King, and he has authorized me to say in his behalf that there is absolutely no truth in the statement made," said Col. Mulock.

TO PROVE WAR CHARGES

Hon. W. P. Mulock, postmaster-general, denied the truth of charges made against Prime Minister King by Col. C. E. Reynolds and Hon. W. D. Herriedge, when he spoke at a big drumhead service at Sutton on Sunday.

Col. Mulock inspected the 80th company of the Reserve Veterans' Guard and then addressed the Veterans' Guard and members of the York County Veterans' Association.

The postmaster-general denied the charges made by Col. Reynolds, president of the Canadian Corps Association, and by Hon. Mr. Herriedge, when they spoke at the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, on July 29 and accused Mr. King of having tried to limit Canada's participation in the war.

"Colonel Reynolds declared that Mr. King had asked Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to tell the members of the British House of Commons that as Canada was to be the arsenal of the empire he did not need, or expect, an expeditionary force from this country," said Col. Mulock.

"Colonel Reynolds, in making this claim, stated that on a visit to England he called on a high British officer and that the first thing this officer said to him was: 'Why doesn't your Prime Minister mean to send us an expeditionary force?'" Col. Reynolds alleged that he said he didn't think that this was the case, and that, in reply, the British officer said: 'Come back tomorrow and I'll show you the proof.'

Col. Mulock then turned to the charge made by Major Herriedge, to the effect that a high official in England had told him the Canadian government, in consequence of entering the Commonwealth Air Training scheme, wished the British government to issue a statement that no further contribution was expected from Canada.

"I have also discussed Major Herriedge's charge with Mr. King, and he has authorized me to say in his behalf that there is absolutely no truth in the statement made," said Col. Mulock.

Distinguished Former Resident Dies In West

Mrs. Charles Clubine of Belleville, formerly a resident of Aurora, has received word that her brother, William Robson of Deleau, Man., was killed in a motor car accident while returning from the U.S.A. to attend a farmers' co-operative meeting in Winnipeg.

Mr. Robson, who went to Deleau from Aurora 52 years ago, was an outstanding leader in the interests of agriculture. He was reeve of the municipality and was formerly a member of the Manitoba legislature as farmers' representative. He was superintendent of the Sunday-school at Bethel church, Deleau, for 30 years and took an active interest in educational affairs. Dr. Bert Howard, principal of Albert college, is a nephew.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Niagara camp presents a great picture this week as a couple of thousand of young Canadians are enjoying healthy meals, regular hours, plenty of hard work and obtaining a lovely coat of tan. There are four reserve units here: the Yorks, Dufferin-Haldimands, Toronto Scottish and 7th Toronto Regiment R.C.A.

Physical jerks are the general early morning eye-opener in all lines and some of the athletes in camp who thought they were in shape are just finding out that army life is much tougher than civilian games.

Variety is the keynote of the sports program. There is football, volleyball, horseshoe-pitching, soccer and boxing. Even in the heat a rugby ball is seen in some areas as members of the Toronto Argonauts and Balmy Beach football club get a bit of pre-season training. Most of them are here with the Toronto Scottish.

The Queen's Yorks' sports program is being directed by Lieut. D. S. Ticker of Toronto, who is a graduate of Pickering College. He has organized things well and the officers turn out in force each evening to see their men relax on the sports field.

Campers have been burning up the camp with their softball triumphs. Last week they represented their unit in an inter-battalion game with the Toronto Scottish. The Scotches were no pushovers, but the Yorks were too good, and as a result they took a 16-6 pasting, much to the delight of the cheering Yorkers. The team that has been assembled by C company is just about good enough to go places in the York-Simcoe league.

Johnny Vandenberg, the Office Specialty handball twirler, is going great guns on the mound and the elongated Newmarket boy is mowing the batters down with the speed and accuracy of a Vickers gun. Aub. Barker is handling his shoots to perfection and, next to Charlie VanZant, we haven't seen a better catcher this season. Cliff "Speedy" Giles, not quite so fast as in other years when he laid down an outfield berth with Newmarket Redmen, is at the initial sack and doing nicely.

Scotty Muir, the Marlboro hockey star and ex-Aurora junior, is at second and he is clouting the ball hard and fielding sharply. Min Brown of Richmond Hill is at short with Bill "William Tell" Sanders, the Stouffville husky, holding down third. This duo are clicking together nicely.

Mickey Smith, captain of the squad, is in centre field and has as his mates Ken Brown and Tommy Spence from Aurora and Tex. Lannan from Richmond Hill. The boys have their eyes pointed on the cup put up by the battalion.

Bob Benville and Joe Alderson of Newmarket took to the squared circle on Friday night in the camp boxing bouts. They clashed with two active service men from an Alberta regiment, who had rested in their tents all day and were in the pink of condition. Our lads had come home from a five-mile route march and were dog tired but game. Alderson lost on a second round technical K.O. to Pto. Kevin McDaniels from Vermillion, Alta. McDaniels had too much experience. Benville lost a split decision to Pto. Phil Samuels of Gadsby, Alta. Going into the final round Bob had a slight edge, but his condition was going fast and when Samuels threw the clinch with a wild right swing it was sufficient to impress the judges. A rematch bout if possible will be secured.

Connie Smylie, the maestro of the Maple Leaf hockey team, is in camp with his battery and appears just as fiery at warfare as he does on the manager's bench. For popularity he plays second fiddle to Byl Apps, his star centre player, who is training with the Toronto team. Apps doesn't look or doesn't get any special favors and he has recently been promoted to the rank of corporal on strict merit, according to his brother N.C.O.s. He acted as a second to Joe Alderson in his boxing bout. The diamonds in each area are a thing to be remembered. They're far from level and lack a screen. This slows up the games and sometimes the ball takes a nasty loop just when an infielder has the pill in his mitt. It's embarrassing sometimes. The Sports Service League with the funds at their disposal could surely rectify the situation. It wouldn't cost very much for a few screens and they would be greatly appreciated.

Pete MacNeil was the only former Aurora lacrosse player to take part in the oldtimer lacrosse match last Friday at Varsity stadium and according to all accounts he is still a wizard with the gutted stick, even tho' the dogs are pretty hard to move. Unfortunately he received a bad gash in his head but is reported as O.K. now.

Charlie Quirrie, well-known to hundreds of Aurorans, was one of the officials and it is just 40 years ago that he was a member of the last Markham team to win a lacrosse championship. It was not until this past winter the Markham teams could produce another championship team in any sport.

Nick Bungay and Ron Howe of the championship junior C team are said to be headed for Oshawa, who are lining up a potential memorial cup team right now. Both boys have one or two years yet in the age ranks and we think they can make the grade. McGill of Orillia, Reid and Bowen of Barrie Colis are other newcomers with the motor city team. Ross Waddell is also definitely headed to Oshawa if all we hear is true. Aurora softballers passed out of the picture, as you know, last week. We missed the final game, which is probably just as well, so we know no alibi. Apparently they beat themselves. Len Simmons and his boys, however, deserve credit for the fight they displayed and the efforts made to get a winning combination. All over the circuit the fans have failed to support the teams and unless we miss our guess they'll all be in the red. Another reason may see no teams operating and the fans can blame themselves if that's the case. The war, too, will take another heavy toll of players, which means the recall of veteran performers, a bad sign in any sport.

What the younger fellows are doing today we don't know, but we venture to say there aren't more than two players on the four teams under 21, making it merely a question of time for the league to peter out.

Newmarket was the first to go, who will be next? Richmond Hill, for their fight and unbeatable spirit, deserve plenty of orchids. It was true that a team that wouldn't be beaten couldn't be, and you know who gets the necessary breaks in any competition. We are installing them as our choice for the title, despite Harry Cousse and the fine record of the Barrie team. They are warming up nicely. Miller is improving with each game and apparently no one can stop Teddy Bennett. Also true is the fact that in each of the play-off games some weak hitter was able to click at the right time.

Mount Albert are our choice to repeat in the Lake Simcoe League, whose play-offs are now under way. The loop handled by Joe Tilley and Jim Denne has had a very successful season. We hope we won't jinx either the Hill or the Mount by making them our choices.

NEW HISTORY FOR OLD

By WILFRED ADAMS, R.A.

(Mr. Adams teaches history at Aurora high school.) "History, with all her volumes vast, Hath but one page."

Those readers who recall their school-day history classes as so many pages of an uninteresting text-book or so many dull and tiresome facts to be recited will be glad to learn that a new deal has been declared for history teaching. It aims at presenting history as a purposeful and challenging study, fitted to explain the world in which we live.

Not so long ago history was defined as "past politics" and in its teaching little attention was paid to the social, economic and cultural factors of human progress. The new deal regards history as the record and interpretation of the whole life of humanity, as "the common adventure of all mankind."

It defines history as the story of the great changes which have occurred to give us our language and literature, our government and laws, our arts and industry, our religion and church and our ideals and customs.

That history has sometimes been an uninteresting and unpopular study is, perhaps, largely due to the fact that it has too often been presented in a lifeless and meaningless manner by history writers. Too frequently history has meant to boys and girls the remote and uncertain past inhabited by a people strange and queer. This vague past has been almost completely divorced from the present. The conventional history books have dwelt too much on the travel, the abnormal and the sensational. Dates and battles, scheming politicians and dynastic rivalries, queens' favorites and kings' courtiers have been given the centre of the stage. Political and military matters have taken too much of the limelight. Events have been paraded in endless confusion, with little attention to the conditions and circumstances which brought them about.

The French revolution, for example, has too frequently been presented as the "Reign of Terror" rather than as the struggle of a people striving for decency and freedom, or Napoleon Bonaparte has been pictured as a heroic figure making his last valiant stand at Waterloo and as a lonely figure at St. Helena, lamenting the cruel fate which denied him the privilege of building for Europe a new order.

Today the great aim of history teaching, as of all education, is to produce the best of citizens. Citizenship has been defined as "the power to contribute one's instructed judgment to the public good." To achieve this aim certain definite objectives in history teaching are essential.

One of these is to have students understand that the great movements and events of history are of such a character that a knowledge of them will lead to a better understanding of the present. They should be brought to realize that only an intelligent understanding of the present will fit them to work most effectively for a better future. History study should make them aware of the principle so well expressed in the statement, "Today is not only the child of yesterday but the heir of all the ages."

A second objective is to arouse in students a permanent interest in history—an interest which will not only continue but greatly expand after they leave school. There are few things more tragic than to have students pay off history, on leaving school, "Thank goodness that's done."

A third objective, and perhaps the most vital, is to have students acquire a social attitude, constructive, progressive, tolerant and sympathetic—an attitude which will bring them to realize their debt to the past and their responsibilities to the community, the state and the world at large.

The study of history should teach them "to see life from many windows and prepare them for action on many fronts."

For the attack on these objectives we now have available equipment most varied and pleasing. In addition to attractive and progressive text-books for every grade, a good supply of supplementary reading is provided in most school and town libraries. Encouragement is given to the use of reference works, biographies, novels and books of science, travel, exploration and discovery. Nothing is better able to give the feel of a period, nothing will recapture more vividly the scene and spirit of the past than a good historical novel.

A most searching light is often cast upon past conditions by the use of source materials such as contemporary speeches, newspapers, diaries, letters and parliamentary debates. Other necessary aids are maps, pictures, slides, museum exhibits and local relics. The motion picture and radio are opening up new fields of great possibilities in history teaching. Much help also may be derived from enterprises which arouse curiosity, stimulate initiative and produce original and creative activity.

Provided with some such objectives and equipment boys and girls will no longer be content to act as idle and indifferent spectators but will be eager to mount the stage and armed with a knowledge of the past take their rightful places as actors in the greatest of all dramas, "The March of Man."

FORMER ARMITAGE TEACHER WEDS

A profusion of gladioli, banked with ferns, decorated the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet L. Williamson, Markham, when their only daughter, Inna Anne Williamson, was united in holy matrimony with Charles Henry Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Nolan, of Stouffville, on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Thomas Mitchell officiated at the ceremony, in the presence of about 75 guests.

The bride was formerly the teacher of Armitage public school.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a lovely gown of white chenille organza with full-tiered skirt and sweetheart neckline. Her veil was full-length, caught in a wreath of orange blossoms, and she wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom and carried a hand-made lace handkerchief, gift of the groom's grandmother. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses, bouvardia and white heather. Miss Isabelle Robinson of Toronto, cousin of the bride, and her only attendant, wore pink organza made on the same lines as the bride's with a matching halo and streamers, and her bouquet was pink roses, blue and pink cornflowers and baby's breath. Mr. Jack Pen-nock was groom's man and Messrs. John Williamson and Bill Ganster the ushers.

The wedding music was played by Miss Grace Pringle, and during the signing of the register Mrs. J. S. Bell of Toronto sang "Beloved 'Tis Morn."

Following the ceremony, the bridal party and guests passed out into the garden where the bride's table was set. Mrs. Williamson, mother of the bride, received in a gown of dusky rose faconne sheer, with corsage of roses, and Mrs. Nolan, mother of the groom, chose a dress of pale blue crepe with navy hat and matching accessories and a corsage of roses. The groom's grandmother, Mrs. Griffith, also received, wearing a heliotrope crepe dress with gray accessories and rose corsage.

Later the young couple left on a trip that will take them to Quebec and a Saguenay cruise. For travelling the bride wore a figured silk-jersey dress, navy redingote, navy hat, gloves, shoes and bag. On their return they will reside in Stouffville.

Miss Helen McDonald, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Wm. Hood, has returned to her home at Niagara Falls.

The pavement on the eighth concession should be in good condition now, as a construction gang spent a number of days last week doing repair work.

Harvest will soon be over and the threshing done. The grain crops are very good this year.

As usual the Young People's meeting on Wednesday evening, Aug. 6, was well attended. Miss Sadie Mulholland was in charge. Mrs. Wm. Hood presided at the organ in the absence of the regular organist. Mrs. Giles led in prayer. The Scripture lesson, the 103rd Psalm, was read by Miss Mulholland, followed by the sword drill, led by Ed. Fockler. Two violin solos were played by John Mitchell.

Those who failed to attend the meeting missed a fine message brought by Earl Grose on "God's call, man's excuse."

Mrs. John Mitchell and Gertrude are spending a few days with relatives in Toronto.

On Sunday morning the Sunday-school was well attended and in the evening the church building was well-filled to hear the gospel message brought by Mr. Rowan from Colossians 1, 28: "Whom we preach, warning every man."

Mr. Rowan sang a lovely solo, which also carried a gospel message.

Keep your cows milking!

Ontario cheese factory patrons did a good job in May and June. They increased cheese production by 257,172 pounds. Don't let the drought be a tool for Hitler. Britain must have 112,000,000 pounds of cheese this year. This requires effort on your part. Drought conditions call for heavier grain feeding immediately.

NORTH GWILLIMBURY
COUNCIL CONDEMNS
SUNDAY DANCING

North Gwillimbury township council met at Belhaven on Monday, Aug. 4. All the members were present.

Two deputations of summer residents came to the council to see about matters they wished to have regulated. The council were advised of action being taken to secure exemption for the municipality from the provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

There was some discussion over the matter of an anti-noise by-law to control disturbing noises at late hours. The conclusion was that there were hardly enough complaints to justify imposing the restriction, a by-law on the entire summer resort area and that with reasonable care and cooperation in the locality concerned the trouble would clear up.

It was also brought out that some complaints were about dancing on Sundays in public places.
The council was opposed to this going on and was of the opinion where it was taking place illegally it should be stopped.

Accounts passed for payment included the following: Carl Morton, $75; T. R. Sheppard, $21; E.
Peters, $250; Mrs. Byford, $1; Mr.
Sedore, $32.50; Newmarket Era,

Grave to inspect a drainage problem.

tion and won by R. Sheppard.

$350.

KESWICK
CELEBRATION HELD
FOR 80TH BIRTHDAY

A splendid congregation was in attendance at Sunday morning service in the United church when Rev. Gordon Domm was the guest preacher, using as his sermon subject "The rich man and Lazarus." The service was in the charge of Rev. Gordon Lapp.
Next Sunday the minister will preach at both services, "The observatory of life" and in the evening on "Resist enemy! Reconstruct country."

Mr. Fred Morton of Los Angeles, Cal., who was some 45 years ago a resident of this village, is at present in Keswick renewing his young manhood acquaintances. Older people will remember Fred as being a son of the late Timothy Morton and Sarah Jane Huntley Morton.
Mr. Timothy Morton once kept the store now occupied by R. J.
Stork.

Miss Lottie Deacon, another resident of years gone by, is visiting at the home of her cousin, Miss May Sprague.

Mrs. F. T. Knight of Toronto was visiting during the weekend at the home of her father, Mr. J.
A. Morton. Also calling at the Morton home during the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Geo.
Hutchison, Mr. Joe Hutchison,
Miss Ella Hutchison, Miss Betty
Sheridan and Mr. and Mrs. S. J.
Southam, all of Toronto. Remaining for a holiday at his aunt's, Mrs. J. A. Morton's, is Mr. George Southam (Rusty).

One day last week the summer home of Mrs. Jos. Irwin was the scene of a birthday party in honor of the 80th birthday of Stephen Winch of Agin-court. Mrs. Irwin very graciously acted as hostess, when a very dainty lawn tea was served.

Those present to honor Mr.
Winch included Mrs. Lizzie Morton of Keswick, a sister, two daughters of Mr. Winch and several granddaughters, Mrs. Perry Winch, Keswick, Mrs. Washington Winch, Belhaven, Mrs. Hilton of Toronto. In all, a very enjoyable afternoon was spent.

Three little fresh-air visitors who have been entertained by Mrs. Perry Winch during the last two weeks are leaving for home today. It is indeed very fine on the part of people who are able and willing to minister in this way to those who stand in need.

It will be of interest to people and friends to know of the birth of a baby girl to Mr. and Mrs.
Kenneth Boothby at Newmarket.

The Christian church Ladies' aid supper will be held in the basement of the church next Wednesday, Aug. 20. Supper will be served from 5:30 p.m.
D.S.T. All are welcome.

6TH CON. N. G.
Contents 'Straw' Could Be Had In Sutton

The Bethel United church garden party will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 20, on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Cameron, sixth concession. Supper will be served from six until all are served. Indianola Beach talent will provide the program.
Many from this district attended the drumhead service at Sutton park last Sunday afternoon, when the 80th company veterans paraded.

Isabel Inglis Colville's Rendezvous in The Era last week about her trip to Sutton and her husband wishing to buy a straw hat mentions the street being a vision of hot-dog stands, shops, dance-halls, etc., which could not be Sutton, but Jackson's Point, which is one mile north of Sutton, as Sutton's main street has no dance-halls open at night.

Had they been in Sutton proper the husband would not have had to go fishing in his old hat because one store in particular here has a large assortment, as this correspondent inquired before writing. Yours truly finds the Common Round very interesting every week.

SUTTON MAN ESCAPES
DROWNING IN NORTH

William Stogdill of Sutton narrowly escaped drowning last Thursday when his boat shot over Moore's Falls in Haliburton county and sank in the rapids below the falls.

Mr. Stogdill, who could not swim, was rescued from the water by three men from Hamilton, who heard his cry for help as the boat started over the falls.

They worked on him with artificial respiration for half an

The Horticultural Society met last Tuesday evening and decided to do without a flower show this year. Owing to a very hot season the flowers in general are not as good and most of them are two weeks ahead this year and would be over before the usual time to hold the show. It cost a great deal to put it on and only a small percent of the members take part, so for this year there are a great many ways money can be used for patriotic purposes and the society hopes for better things next year. In the meantime they urge everyone to keep their homes and gardens beautiful.

WHITCHURCH REDUCES TAXES BY HALF-MILL

Despite increased costs, higher salaries and an ever-increasing program of maintenance in the township of Whitchurch, which is similar to that of all other municipalities, the Whitchurch township council on Saturday cut the tax rate for 1941 by half a mill.

The township road program this year will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000, to maintain the standard of roads demanded and expected by the ratepayers. Of this amount $2,500 has gone for dust layer and oil, although not all roads have been oiled that ought to be, members of the council in session on Saturday observed. While viewed as a vital necessity, oil and dust layer are high in price, and very costly when applied in any considerable quantity.

Saving in the tax rate was made possible by a half-mill reduction in the county rate, which council passed on to the taxpayers, so that the services rendered the farmers will be maintained at the same cost as a year ago.

There were three cases of sheep killing by dogs reported and the council reimbursed the sheep owners to the extent of $67. They were Arthur Emerson, William Brodie and Stewart Rae. All flocks attacked were in the southeast corner, and so far the dog or dogs have not been caught.

Saturday's meeting, aside from the striking of the rate, was the lightest of the year, and was presided over by Reeve Earl Toole, with all members being present, Deputy-Reeve G. Leary, Councillors E. Logan, E. Baker and H. Wells.
